gation were planned by county relief directors of the district at a meeting at the Marion office. Each of the 533 men and women WPA workers were required to submit a statement to Mr. Abel listing their incomes and expenses for a three-month period from August to October. The statements were to show the financial status of the entire family.

All those whose statements showed a private income much

Village Escapes
Repetition Of 1913 High Water

Why wasn't Prospect under water? is the question being asked by many an old timer in Marion county who remembers the 1913 flood when virtually the entire village was inundated.

Dave Herd official government river and weather observer for the community advanced his opinion on the matter yesterday and cited what is apparently a plausible explanation.

We had as much rainfall in three as we had in 1913 but the difference lies in the time in which it fell he said. This year the rain was scattered through 14 days but in 1913 it all came within about 72 hours.

The ground although it was saturated during the last few days of the flood season this year was able to absorb much of the water as it fell and the stream were able to carry off the surplus sufficiently fast to prevent a general flood Mr. Herd said.

Only one home in the entire community was touched by water this year it being in the northern part of town in low lying land he said. Since 1926 when part of the village was affected by high water many of the houses in the northern parts have been raised slightly.

Yesterday the Scioto fell back to normal again 7.74 feet permitting traffic again on the Newmans Prospect road which is covered when the river stands at 8.80 feet at Prospect.

HEADS N. Y. THEATER

Fred DeWolfe Second Marion
to Manage Huge Hippodrome

The second Marion man to become manager of the New York Hippodrome is Fred DeWolfe brother of Mrs. Tracy R. Allen of 330 Franklin street.

Billboard weekly news organ of the theater this week carried an item that he has been named manager of the Hippodrome for Mike Jacobs.

For 25 years Mr. DeWolfe was auditor for the Barnum & Bailey circus and at one time to his career in the world of entertainment he was advance man for De-Wolfe Hopper and various theatrical agencies. He was born in Marion son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James DeWolfe and was a brother of the late James DeWolfe Jr. a former newspaper man who later associated with the famous Dexter Fellows as press agent for the Barnum & Bailey circus. The last time he was in Marion was for Christmas 1935 when he spent several days with his sister.

The first Marion man to become manager of the Hippodrome was the late Clyde Powers brother of Mrs. H. S. Kramet of 481 South
State street one of the last times he was in the city was when Fred Stone show Stopping Stomach of which Mr. Powers was production manager was showing in Columbus.

His health forced Dr. Bourke to resign according to a news report received by Mrs. E. A. Saffner of 199 South Main street. According to the item Dr. Bourke resigned in September. His successor recently named is Dr. Charles A.
Polling of Phoenix Ariz. widely known radio preacher.

Dr. and Mrs. Bourke were in Marion about three years ago for a visit with friends. Dr. Bourke served the Long Beach church for 20 years.

YOUR INCOME TAX

NO. 4
Normal Tax and Surplus Rates

The Revenue Act of 1936 provides for only one normal tax rate. That is 4 per cent on the amount of the net income in excess of the allowable credits such as the personal exemption credit for dependents etc.

The act provides for an additional credit for the purpose of the normal tax of an earned income credit that is 10 per cent of the amount of the earned net income but not in excess of 10 per cent of the amount of the net income. The personal exemption and credit for dependents are also allowable credits against the net income for the purpose of the surtax. The resulting net income being designated "surtax net income." The surtax is imposed on surtax net income in excess of $4,000. The rate increase in accordance with the amount of surtax net income included in varying graduated surtax brackets. On a surtax net income of $4,000 or less there is no surtax.
On a surtax net income in excess of $4,000 and not in excess of $8,000
the rate is 4 per cent of such excess. The surtax upon a surtax net income of $8,000 is $320 and upon a surtax net income in excess of $8,000 and not in excess of $12,000
the rate is 5 per cent of such excess. In addition to the $320 the maximum rate is applicable to such excess in addition to the $3-20. Many taxpayers make the error of applying the maximum rate instead of the rate provided for in the bracket in which their "surtax net income" is included.

Following is an example of how to compute the tax on a net income of $5,500 all of which represents earned net income the taxpayer being single and without dependents.

Net income $5,500
Less personal exemption 1,000
Surtax net income $4,500

Normal tax 4 per cent on amount of surtax net income in excess of $4,000
but not over $8,000 4 per cent of $500 $20.00

Surtax 5 per cent on amount of surtax net income in excess of $8,000
but not over $12,000 5 per cent of $0.00 $0.00

Total normal tax and surtax $20.00

Taxpayers are advised to consult the instructions in form 1040 relating to the earned income credit and surtax as well as all other instructions therein before filing their returns.

The Real Job

As high as it is reaching today in the Ohio valley, the flood is the real job of the nation.

There is nothing, exciting about it. The outside world's attention will have turned to something else long before the job is finished.

House and buildings must be saved. The streets must be torn away from the streets, plastering, painting and painting.

It is heart-breaking, much staining, pocketbook flattening toll the cost of it is realization it may have to be done all over again before a month perhaps not for years but some time.

Many families have been cleaned out entirely. Others have lost most of their meager property. Everybody has lost something.

The nation has been and will continue to be generous in making contributions for the immediate flood emergency. Unfortunately there is no adequate way of dealing with the problem of rehabilitation. Flood victims thankful for the help they have received yet realize it is only a fraction of what is needed—both money and effort to restore them to a condition approaching self-sufficiency.

Why Not Now?

Anxiety and exuberance was the post inaugural mood in Washington. To furnish the spectacle which the crowd expected a number of important officials including the most important one of all exposed themselves to the worst imaginable weather. It was more luck than sense that the consequences were not grave. They still may be.

There are three general classifications of persons who keep the inaugural show going strong. They are in the order of their importance: Washington shopkeepers, politicians and spectacle fans.

The latter may be disregarded the world over is all they're a right to expect. The politicians may be put off they always need money. As for the shopkeepers—well a shopkeeper is a shopkeeper and his business is serving customers—and the more the better for him.

The point is that without shopkeepers, politicians and persons who chronically flock to see the show it would be feasible in all ways to cut off the whole silly out-door inaugural performance and let the President of the United States take his oath quietly indoors. Eventually after a few important men have been killed by exposure it will be done that way.

The Real Relief Crisis

Ohio's potential relief crisis is materializing again.

As legislative leaders see it, either the state must provide new tax sources to enable it to bear the relief burden or counties must draw upon their resources to match dollar for dollar a smaller state contribution. The state would like to pass the buck. Counties with large urban populations and a heavy relief load are especially exposed to that arrangement. We have no money to match state funds they decline. Therefore the state must furnish all the money itself and should do so because relief is a state responsibility.

So the real relief crisis is not relief but taxation to pay for relief. The federal government struggling to rid itself of the obligation to finance relief by borrowing, is anxious to shift the burden to the states. The states are anxious to shift the burden to the counties.

The counties unwilling, to grant that relief is a state responsibility refuse to do the job. When they do have no money they mean it. If new taxes are necessary and they are then the state should pay the taxes. The real relief crisis is taxation.

Civilization in Alaska

News from the Marston Arctic post always is received with great interest. A number of citizens are interested in the experiment to transplant the new order in a land where it is almost unknown.

Colonel's debts have been paid. The latest word. The relief of the cost of running the post. The cost of the back home for 20 months. The cost of living at true but not half of what it was the $14,000 debt which Charles Post paid with a family of seven has been paid.

Charlie must have quite a place up there in the valley.

Strikes, Floods And Business

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.

Strikes and floods have disrupted the nation's business progress. The figures in the monthly business chart show that. But they also show the effect is probably exaggerated in the public mind.

Take the auto strike. No official figures on the effectiveness of the strike are being published. There are none. But there are two excellent private estimates which are dependable. You may accept them as semi-official.

These fix the car output of the big three in the pre-strike week of Dec. 19 and the strike week of Jan. 23 as follows:

	1936	1937
General Motors	1,000	1,000
Chrysler	2,000	2,000
Ford	3,000	3,000

It shows John L. Lewis has tied up General Motors rather effectively. But more interesting is the point that Ford and Chrysler have not picked up the business General Motors lost. Ford gained only 2,000 cars while Chrysler actually lost business when the glass strike began to affect them.

What has happened is the creation of a deficiency of about 45,000 cars in weekly auto production. The market is not being filled. If the strike is settled within a reasonable time it is quite possible that accelerated production later will fill the deficiency. Very little change in total output may be noticeable on the year as a whole.

At least it is an economic fact that very few people who want new cars this year will fail to buy them later this year if they can get them. The only net loss in purchasing power seems to be among the strikers themselves. Even they may be able to buy their new cars later by working overtime to meet the deficiency after the strike is over.

Flood Effects. Take the floods. The best advance indication of January steel output indicates that the mills as a whole will turn out about as much this month as they did in the record month of December. When we later flooded the Pittsburgh and Wheeling areas all mills were up running at top speed on backlogs and January orders were exceeding those of last year. They were hitting about 90 per cent of capacity. The flood dropped them to about 75 per cent for the past week. They expect to make it up shortly.

Floods likewise have made about a 5 per cent dent in weekly steel output. But this may be offset by rebuilding activities when the water subsides. So will activities in most other affected lines.

The main economic effect of

BY PAUL MALLON

floods is the destruction of wealth. Buildings and factories are being ruined. But as far as the national business activity and national income are concerned the flood in Illinois may not be as far reaching as it seems.

Substantially the same thing is true of strikes if they are not general and not prolonged and there is virtually unanimous opinion on the inside here that the restricted auto strike will not be prolonged.

Three well informed government economists were gazing about it the other day. They agreed in the opinion it would not last six months or a year. One guessed a settlement would come within a month, another six weeks and the third two months. They just differed in estimating how long the managers and labor leaders would puddle around in negotiations.

They also were unanimous on what would win.

The present position of business progress is disclosed in the following figures based on 1923-25 average as 100 and adjusted for seasonal variations. (The single exception is prices based on 1926 as 100. Each figure represents the percentage of business normally existing at the times stated.)

Year	Auto	Steel	Coal	Electricity	Gas	Oil	Food	Textiles	Chemicals	Metals	Non-Ferrous	Transportation	Communication	Finance	Insurance	Real Estate	Government	Unemployed
1923	111	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100

Consider Vacuum. An extensive vacuum in per capita income is now being experienced. Unless there is a recovery in the near future, which is not likely, the ground will be laid for a depression.

Another problem is the attempt to solve the problem of the unemployed. The government is trying to do this by creating jobs, but it is not working.

I have watched royally drizzle through the Victory Arch in the Tiedgarten approach to Unter den Linden the venerable Berlin aristocrats in their dog carts back to back with groans in the Bois morning elegants on their canopied chaises in London's Hyde Park and Mrs. Belmont's rubricated coach and four carrying triumphant down town avenue. But none had the glamour of the procession circling the square on band night.

There was Charles Gentry the dapper town tailor in his velvet low wheeled Stanhope so high in the air. There were Billy Taylor the literary man and his lightning like sword. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Henning the banking people year and their carriage with the fringed canopy. Ezzie Newman the town belle who brought back from a summer excursion to Atlantic City that new fancy and many thought splendid—gam—lawn tennis. Stuttering Joe a beloved blackamoor who lived along that shady seashore mentioned only in whispers as Dog Ham and de liced washing for his mother Joe was a victim of what psychiatrists call hysteria jabbering incessantly out loud his thoughts about our country sometimes amusing often embarrassing.

Our public square on band night was an epic pattern of small town nobility. Set in the human arena glow that comes along with aching loneliness of sunset a contented people as dark relief in the tapestry. There were the shantly beat girls—colored doves—grandmothers called them—buxom ladies not as yet tarnished by the erosion of vice. Girls we were to see later in cross-cross silhouettes through the bars of the county jail. Girls the gossiping old pelicans then as now sometimes never gave a chance.

Our town was entitled by a quiescent band of aunts and dreamers to be called the French Five Hundred. Its name Calipso's merris of Gauls and the Galle Impresario of architecture prevailed.

What's good for sudden dizzy spells, Doc?

NEWS OF STAGE AND SCREEN—MARION THEATER PROGRAMS

Palace Books Splendid Program for Next Week

"Romeo and Juliet" For One Day, "The Girl From Paris" and "Come and Get It" on Program.

Topping 1937 theater announcements and looking of two highly trusted films, "That Girl From Paris" and "Come and Get It," for the Palace next week, is the showing of one of the stellar productions in the history of motion pictures, "Romeo and Juliet," on Tuesday.

The Norma Shearer-Leslie Howard version of Shakespeare's immortal romance will be shown at road show prices. Reserved seats sold opened Thursday.

"That Girl From Paris," booked for Sunday and Monday with a mid-night show tonight, has three stars, Lily Pons, who is being received as an actress of an ability on a par with her Metropolitan Opera Company standing, Jack Oakie, who is said to give one of his best comedy performances, and Gene Raymond, blond fiance of Jeanette MacDonald.

Oakie and Raymond both fall in love with Miss Pons, playing the role of a French opera star, who lures her manager at the altar and pursues a handsome American saxophonist to America by stowing away in his cabin. Her troubles as a stowaway increase when Oakie and Raymond, members of the ship's orchestra get romantic ideas. Interlarded in a kaleidoscopic picture, with a French grape festival, an ocean liner, and the Met Opera House as backdrops, is a potpourri of melody climaxing in the rendition by Miss Pons of the beautiful aria from "The Barber of Seville." The prima donna also sings "Taran-tella" and "The Blue Danube Waltz" in addition to "Call to Arms," "Seal It With a Kiss" and "My Nephew from Nice."

Miss Shearer's portrayal of "Juliet" has been hailed by critics as one of the finest ever given, ranking alongside the Julietta of Mary Anderson, Julia Marlowe, Helen Modjeska, Maude Adams, Jane Cowl and Katharine Cornell.

Among the supporting cast are John Barrymore, Pina May Oliver, Basil Rathbone, C. Aubrey Smith, Andy Devine, Ralph Forbes, Reginald Denny, Conway Tearle, Henry Kolker, Robert Warwick, Virginia Hammond and Violet Kemble-Cooker.

The late Irving G. Thalberg, husband of Miss Shearer, planned to bring the play to the screen for the last 10 years. Actual preparatory work was started in July, 1934. The screen adaptation was taken from the Cambridge edition of the classic, which is all Shakespeare. There is not a word in the script that is not Shakespeare. Works of Benozzo, Gossoli, Carpaccio, Bellini, Roguereau and other famous painters were photographed for costume and other authentic detail. Camera crews were sent to the ancient city of Verona to photograph it from every possible angle, to recapture the beauty of the famed church of San Zeno. From the thousands of photographs the art director and his staff constructed a city in miniature which ultimately grew into the lavish settings used in the picture. The square of Verona covered approximately eight acres of studio grounds. One thousand two hundred and fifty costumes were designed and made for the picture. The completed version, which will be shown Tuesday, runs for two hours and ten minutes.

Edna Ferber Story
"Come and Get It," Thursday through Saturday, will follow in one-day showing of "Racing Lady," in which Ann Dvorak is featured.

Edna Ferber's novel, "Come and Get It," was adapted to the screen with Edward Arnold topping the billing and Joel McCrea, who re-

STARS OF "ROMEO AND JULIET"

Henry Kolker, Leslie Howard, Norma Shearer in "Romeo and Juliet"

Norma Shearer and Leslie Howard, stars of the production of "Romeo and Juliet," which will be brought to the Palace for showings Tuesday, are shown above with Henry Kolker who plays the role of the Capulets and the Montagues.

Knights," which will be given first-run showing with "The Last of the Mohicans." A couple of American college boys, fresh from triumphs on the gridiron, are precipitated into a whirlpool of intrigue, threatened rebellion and amazing escapades when by a strange streak of fortune, one of them turns out to be the eleventh rightful king of Transylvania, a mythical kingdom of the Graustark type.

"Alibi for Murder," featuring William Gargan and Marguerite Churchill, and "Week-end Millionaire," a comedy-drama with Buddy Rogers and Mary Brian, will be shown Wednesday and Thursday.

John Wayne and Ann Rutherford play the leading roles in a western, "The Lonely Trail," which will be shown Friday and Saturday on a bill with a return showing of "Let 'Em Have It," in which Richard Arlen and Virginia Bruce are featured.

The chaotic and bloody days of the reconstruction period which followed the end of the Civil war in the south provide the story of "The Lonely Trail."

JACK OAKIE SERENADES LILY PONS

Jack Oakie serenades Lily Pons of the Metropolitan Opera in the above scene from the comedy, "That Girl from Paris," which will be at the Palace Sunday and Monday with a mid-night preview tonight. Miss Pons and Gene Raymond are co-stars. Oakie taking the leading comedy role.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

(Copyright, 1937, Frederick Jackson) At 11:00 Count Vronski, who was blackmailing Anne Phelps with love letters, is shot to death in Anne's studio. Bigelow, the young American from Paris, finds Anne and Karanaukoff, the glamorous dancer, starting at the corpse. They hide it during a party, then Bigelow and Dr. Kuznetsov, the physician, remove it to Vronski's room. Police arrest Thomas Bryden, a wealthy chap, who hated Vronski. When Bryden's wife, Lorna, vanishes, Anne and Bigelow determine to find her, but are delayed by Inspector Hagedorn's questioning.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

"About Those Checks—"

"It's a funny thing," said Hagedorn, looking at his drink, "but we can't find the taxi cab that took him away from the studio again and we can't trace the telephone from which he made that call. Nobody seems to have seen him from the time he left the restaurant with you until his valid found him dead the next morning. Your health, Miss— and Ma'am." Hagedorn took his drink at a gulp and a swallow of water after it.

"Yes, that is funny," said Anne, politely.

"You didn't quarrel with him, Miss, for any reason at all during the evening?" asked Hagedorn.

"No, indeed," Anne assured him. "I can vouch for that," added Bigelow, "and so can Madame Karanaukoff."

"Quite so," said Hagedorn. "I was only wondering about his going away so suddenly after himself arranging the party. You wouldn't know, I suppose, whether he quarreled with the Russian lady?"

"Not unless they quarreled after we went to the kitchen," said Bigelow. "And they hardly had time then, also, they had only met that night for the first time, so it doesn't seem likely, does it?"

"No," agreed Hagedorn. "Well, I think that is all, Miss. Thank you very much." He put down his glass and rose. Anne rose, too, breathing a little sigh of relief in spite of herself.

Hagedorn bowed rather heavily and started for the door, but just as he reached it, he turned back abruptly.

"Oh," he cried, "about those checks of yours, Miss, that Count Vronski had been paying into his bank?"

Anne faltered and turned pale, taken completely unawares by this bombshell.

"Checks?" she repeated uncertainly.

"Checks?" gasped Mrs. Phelps, speaking for the first time. "What nonsense are you talking?"

"Miss Phelps—" said Chief Inspector Hagedorn, ignoring the old lady and looking straight at Anne Bigelow, realizing that this was the real purpose of the man's visit. He had been playing with them, bugging them into a sense of false security to throw them off their guard, now, and crack his brain as he would, he could think of no way of side-tracking this inquiry. He felt suddenly a little sick.

"Yes, I did give Count Vronski checks on several occasions," Anne

BURNS, ALLEN COMING HERE

Marion Will Return "Here Comes Cookie" and "Texas Rangers" Next Week.

Gracie Allen favors and George Burns like to be patient in their comedy, "Here Comes Cookie," which will return to the Marion Sunday and Monday. Joining them in their goofy goings-on is a cast of able comedians, players and an entire vaudeville troupe. George Barbour, Andrew Tomber, Betty Furness and Rafael Storm play leading roles.

The picture gives Gracie full play for her dumb bell remarks. Her wealthy father, Barber, decides to do his millions over to Gracie to handle so as to safeguard his other daughter, Miss Furness, from the attentions of a fortune-hunting gigolo. He goes off on a fishing trip and puts Burns, his secretary, in charge as legal advisor. Gracie immediately disobeys her father and begins to feed and house a group of starving actors in her Park Avenue home.

"It's a wild, mad tale, replete with laughs," said Hagedorn. "The Texas Rangers," highly recommended theater fare for young and old, will return on the Sunday-Monday bill. Fred Macburney, Jean Parker, Jack Oakie, Lloyd Nolan, Edward Ellis and Bonnie Bartlett are among the players who score personal hits in this stirring panoramic view of early Texas history, based on true records of the exploits of one of the world's most famous organizations of peace officers.

The Tuesday and Wednesday program will have two features, "The Mandarin Mystery" featuring Eddie Quillan and Charlotte Henry, and "Woman in Distress," in which Irene Harvey, May Robson and Dean Jagger have principal roles.

A postage stamp plays an important function in the picture, "The Mandarin Mystery," adapted from the Elery Queen novel, "The Chinese Orange Mystery." The theft of a $50,000 stamp from Miss Henry sets off the action. Death comes to two persons before Quillan, a detective whose talents run to writings books and inventing gadgets to save physical exertion, solve the mystery.

The story of "Woman in Distress" tells of the professional rivalry between a young star reporter and a sob sister on an opposition daily. When the two attempt to aid an eccentric old lady in solving the mysterious theft of her valuable painting, complications arise that speed the story to its climax.

Edward Everett Horton and Charlotte Wynters play the leading roles in "Let's Make a Million," a story of one man's battle and how it grew. The brand new picture will be shown Thursday through Saturday on a bill with a Bob Livingston western, "The Riders of the Whistling Skull."

To Horton, a typical small-town business man in a typical American small town, the bonus is nothing short of a godsend. One of the things he wants to do is to make Miss Wynters his wife.

Margaret Mendenhall and Margaret McWade, the famous "upbeat" pair of "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," have other plans for his money—they want him to use it to buy a monument to honor his grandfather, the founder of the town. When he balks they resort to convenient fakes and other tricks but everything works out for Horton.

And why—why—in their frank talks together—had she never spoken of this man? Bigelow suddenly realized he had halted irresolutely in the hall—blind and deaf to his surroundings—unaware of anything but the agonized face of Walters peering at him brought him to himself.

"The telephone—" said Bigelow. "There's one in the coat cupboard, there, sir," answered Walters.

Bigelow nodded. He got hold of himself firmly, called the Carleton, asked for Karanaukoff. An instant later, he was saying: "Chief Inspector Hagedorn was here asking you the other night and we told him we were in the kitchen when your countryman left and didn't see him go, but that he left a message with you. Also, that it was you who spoke to him on the phone, afterward, so you would be able to tell him exactly what was said."

"But of course," murmured Karanaukoff. "Is he coming to see me?"

"I imagine he's on his way now."

"How exciting! Is he alarming?"

"Not at first glance, but sharp, I think, and dangerous."

"I adore dangerous men," said Karanaukoff. "I will receive him with Tzarevitch in my lap. Together we shall be a match for him, never fear. Thank you for calling me up.... Goodbye."

"Goodbye," said Bigelow. He hung up and stepped out into

Character—BASIS OF BANKING

RIGID regulations of banking are actually character-building opportunities for those dealing with banks like this—no less than reputation-building for the bank itself.

Everyone contemplating dealing with this bank should understand that good character, or the reputation for keeping promises, still forms the basis for every loan we make, no matter how well the loan is secured by collateral.

"Let's look at the record" means reviewing how well one's word has been kept... the bank's as well as the borrower's.

CHURCH TO HONOR RETIRED MINISTERS

"Pioneer Day" Will Be Observed Sunday at Calvary Evangelical

Pioneer day will be observed Sunday morning at the Calvary Evangelical church in the interest of retired ministers and ministers' widows.

Mrs. Emma Berger, widow of Rev. H. C. Berger who is credited with the founding of Calvary church, will speak on "A Pioneer Ministry—If I Had It To Do Again Would I?"

Mrs. Berger has returned to Marion to make her home after an absence from the city. The Emma Berger class of Calvary church was named in her honor.

Rev. J. W. Heininger, pastor will speak at the morning service on "Why Preach?" Rev. Heininger is a trustee of the perannation fund and will attend an executive committee meeting Thursday in Cleveland.

A goal of $40,000 for the superannuation fund has been set by the general conference. The morning offering of Calvary church will go toward this fund.

The superannuation fund was launched by the general conference in October of 1911 to provide security for the aged or disabled Evangelical minister and ministers' widows.

During the 25 years since the fund was established beneficiaries have received a total of $1,895,121. The current year's need is for $160,000. Of this amount $120,000 is provided for by receipts from investments due and other sources leaving $40,000 to be raised by the congregations.

The evangelist and his wife are outstanding leaders in their work and are nationally known. Rev. Davidson said in announcing their revival services.

Both are graduates of Asbury college. Rev. Cox will be in charge of the evangelistic services and the singing will be conducted by Mrs. Cox. The public is invited to join the congregation for the services which will be held each night at 7:30. The Sunday morning service will be at 10:30.

Why Do Calamities Come?

BY REV. J. A. CARRICKER
Pastor, the Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church

Jesus—In the world ye shall have tribulation, but he of good cheer I have overcome the world.

WE live in a troubled world. Ever since sin entered the world man has been having his troubles. We shall not expect to be trouble free until the world is sin free. We could not live in a den of lions in safety or in a house of contagious disease without being subject to suffering. The only way to escape trouble in this world is to get out of it. The only reason for the world's coming into the world is to remove sin and its curse. He came as a savior and victor. He came to save and to give life. He came to give life to the lost Christian in his powerful presence of the Saviour. He came to give life to the lost Christian in his powerful presence of the Saviour.

invisible. And to all Christians He said: "He shall endure to the end shall be saved." Troubles come upon us not only because we live in a sin-troubled world, but because we need saving. It is our duty to have faith as long as life presents no peril. The man of real faith is the man who can trust God when everything goes dead wrong. "Can your faith stand such testing?"

We are told also that troubles come upon us to chasten us. When we begin to drift away from God something must be done to make us stop and think. Something must be done to remind us that we are dependent upon God—that we are unable to overcome sin and its curses without divine help.

Troubles should also serve to convince of the greatness of God's love. Rather than to puzzle us about His care, God so loved the world that He gave His Only Begotten Son.

Troubles should serve to remind us that this world is not the sort of home God intended for His own. The Saviour prepares a place for us which is sin and trouble free.

Troubles should draw us closer to God and closer to each other. They should strengthen our faith in God and increase our service for each other.

Last of all, troubles in this world should make us very zealous in furthering the lost cause of salvation through Christ the Lord.

ANNOUNCE PROGRAM FOR FELLOWSHIP TEA

Methodist Women Here To Join With Others In Presenting Mission Topic

YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Noise

An editorial in the American Journal of Public Health reminds us of the great progress made along the path of better health during the past few decades. In fact, the past few decades have been better understood and to a considerable extent controlled. For example, such dreaded ailments as typhoid fever have decreased markedly. Mucous and federal insistence upon the purification of drinking water, sewerage disposal and cleanliness of the streets and homes have helped to reduce health hazards.

Recently another important step has been taken toward health security. I refer to the material lessening of noise which has always been prevalent in large communities. There can be no doubt that the noise of traffic, automobiles, horns, loud speakers or radios and other unnecessary noises are distressing to say the least. Some persons are unaffected by noises, but others suffer greatly.

It is now believed in the scientific world that noise leads to impairment of health and decreases the efficiency of the human body. Experiments with industrial work show that noise prevention in factories has helped increase the quality and quantity of the work output. Likewise, it improves health and lessens fatigue. Noise produces increased muscular tension and leads to waste of energy.

A recent study of this problem shows that noise is more prevalent in the United States than in countries abroad. "Too much of it is unnecessary. Every effort is being made to curb it and wherever possible completely to eradicate it. I am glad to say that great success has followed this campaign.

STUDENT TO TELL OF FLOOD SUNDAY

First hand news from the Louisville flood area will be given those who attend the Sunday morning worship service at the Forest Lawn Presbyterian church.

Roy Converse a second year student at the Presbyterian ministry in Louisville will be the speaker. He will give an account of the flood and of the relief work done in the stricken city. Mr. Converse is a candidate for the ministry.

THIS IS TRUE IN NEW YORK CITY

In many states there are laws against the unwarranted use of automobiles. It is probable that in a short time quiet automobiles will be the rule. Other contraptions will be so manufactured as to eliminate unnecessary noise.

As soon as this is accepted as one of the problems of public health everyone will be made aware of the real need of preventing unnecessary noise. Hospital zones are now protected against unnecessary noise. If these measures are important for the ill, there is no reason why they cannot be enjoyed by everyone.

Public health officials believe that noise prevention should be taught to children as well as to adults. Society should be united in support of every program for noise elimination. Let us all join in this campaign against noise.
